Exploring Social Justice Union Organizing - December 11, 5:00 - 6:00 pm

Come join the Education Justice Coalition to learn about and discuss the ways social justice union organizing can help us protect our communities from right-wing attacks. We'll explore some key concepts such as bargaining for the common good and look to past teacher union struggles and wins for inspiration. We'll end the evening by applying what we learn to the Vermont context and the current political moment. This event is part of our emergent event series where we'll gather and discuss pressing issues related education justice in Vermont k-12 schools. For more info, contact alyssa.edjvt@gmail.com.

Know Your Rights for Parents & Caregivers - December 12, 5:00 - 6:00 pm

We will cover current Vermont policies and law related to access to gender affirming health care, shield laws, and changing gender markers on important documents. We will also discuss potential legislative and administrative actions the state could take to further protect trans youth. Attorneys and legal advocates will be available to answer questions and give intake or education resource referrals. RSVP required - contact amelia@outrightvt.org.
